

The 10-Minute Home Reset

A simple printable routine for making your space feel lighter, one small step at a time.

Begin in four easy steps

- ☐ Choose the reset that matches your time and energy.
- ☐ Set a timer and let the checklist guide the decisions.
- ☐ Move in order, or skip any step that does not help today.
- ☐ Stop when the timer ends. Better is enough.

Progress counts, even when it is small.

Use what helps. Pause when you need to. Begin again your way.

Your whole-home reset

Five focused rounds. Spend about two minutes on each, then stop when the timer ends.

1

Collect the obvious pieces. Leave sorting for another time.

2

Bring them to the sink or dishwasher. Washing is optional.

3

Gather loose clothes and towels into one basket or pile.

4

Return the easiest items first. Use one catch-all basket if helpful.

5

Clear and wipe the surface that will make the room feel lighter.

☐

The five-minute minimum win

For a low-energy day: give each step one minute, then give yourself permission to stop.

One minute at a time

- ☐ Throw away or recycle five obvious pieces.
- ☐ Move dishes and cups to the sink.
- ☐ Put loose clothes and towels in one place.
- ☐ Return five items to where they belong.
- ☐ Clear a space about the size of one sheet of paper.

My minimum win today

Choose one room

Pick the space that would make the biggest difference right now. Completing one box is enough.

Kitchen

- ☐ Clear the sink
- ☐ Wipe one counter
- ☐ Put food away
- ☐ Sweep visible crumbs

Living room

- ☐ Collect dishes
- ☐ Fold blankets
- ☐ Clear one surface
- ☐ Reset cushions

Bedroom

- ☐ Gather laundry
- ☐ Clear the bedside area
- ☐ Straighten the bed
- ☐ Put away five items

Bathroom

- ☐ Clear the counter
- ☐ Wipe the sink
- ☐ Hang the towels
- ☐ Empty the trash

A gentle week of resets

Notice what helps. Empty boxes are information, not failure.
